Re: Lab Fees

Dear Patient,

During your office visit you may have some blood work or lab test that will be processed in an outside lab. The charges for these test are set by the laboratory. We have no control over them. The average cost for a pap smear is approximately $50-80, but may be more if your pap is abnormal and has to be examined by a pathologist. The cost for a gonorrhea / chlamydia test is approximately $175. This fee is not part of your office visit fee. These test may be done as part of your complete exam, or if the doctor suspects that you may have a sexually transmitted disease. You may receive separate bills from the lab for these test. If you get a bill complete the insurance information on the back of the bill and return it. If you do not have insurance, submit your payment to the lab.

I have read the above information, and I agree to the terms within.

I have read the above, and I refuse to have any lab test that may need to be processed by an outside lab. I will not hold the doctor responsible for a missed diagnosis or untreated sexually transmitted diseases as a result of my not having these test.
